George Washington Wins

Defeats Gallaudet College in a Well-played Game by Score of 21-0. Good Work of Leonard and Stevenson.

The George Washington University opened its foot ball season on Saturday by winning a cleanly played game from Gallaudet College. The size of the score tells the story of the game. All that was made came from steady, earnest work on the part of our men, and the University at large has reason to be proud of the gridiron heroes. One remarkable feature of the game was the lack of wrangling or "dirty" work on the part of players, for while every man played with everything that was in him, not once did any player descend to the tactics used by many successful teams.

Captain Steenerson deserves a great deal of credit for the splendid manner in which he ran the game, he played snappy ball and was in every play from start to finish. The work of the half-backs deserves mention especially that of Stevenson and Leonard, the latter was easily the star of the second-half of the game and as he is in Freshman Law, should be heard from in later years. Stevenson played his usual game which everyone knows is always good. On the end, Lorando did star work, while in the latter part of the second half Day showed up well. The entire line was good, but Gibson and Morris at tackles should be given the palm for the best work.

GAME IN DETAIL.

Gallaudet won the toss and chose the east goal. Steenerson kicked to Gallaudet's 25 yd. line. After the mutes attempted to pierce our line, they punted to the foul line. The Varsity team started up the field, but soon lost the ball on a fumble, one of the Kendall Green men falling on it. However, Gallaudet soon lost it on downs. Then the G. W. U. team went straight up the field, Morris went through left tackle for 1 yard, Gibson through right for 4 yds., Stevenson cut between tackle and end for 15 yds. and Cathrin the same place for 4. Gibson made 2 and 3 in succession, Stevenson 5, then Cathrin 3, and Stevenson was pushed over the line in the next play for a touchdown. Steenerson missed a hard goal. Score G. W. U., 5; Gallaudet, 0.

Gallaudet kicked to George Washington and Stevenson ran back 18 yds. Then the team pushed its way steadily down the field by continuous gains of Stevenson, Cathrin, Gibson, Morris, and Babcock, until finally Stevenson landed across the line for the second touchdown. Steenerson missed goal. Score, G. W. U., 10; Gallaudet, 0. Gallaudet again kicked off and Boarman blocked the ball, Kilgour falling on it. G. W. lost the ball on a fumble and Gallaudet made 3 yds. when time was called. Score first half, G. W. U. 10; Gallaudet 0.

In the second half Leonard was substituted for Cathrin. Gallaudet kicked off to G. W. U., who rushed the ball back 10 yds. Leonard then cut between tackle and end for 25 yds. Gibson followed with 3 more, Stevenson 8, and Leonard again 3. G. W. U. lost the ball on fumble. Gallaudet fumbled and Leonard got the ball running 20 yds. for a touchdown. Steenerson missed goal. Score, G. W. U., 15; Gallaudet, 0. George Washington kicked off and Gallaudet began to steadily rush down the field, when our team braced and held them until they were forced to kick. After the line up, Leonard made his second sensational run for 25 yds. G. W. U. ran the ball steadily up the field and Leonard was pushed over for a touchdown. Steenerson kicked goal. Score, G. W. U., 21; Gallaudet, 0. Gallaudet kicked off and Steenerson punted and Gallaudet ran the ball back for 25 yds. Then a try was made for a goal from field. It was a beautiful kick, but fell a few feet short. George Washington returned the ball and time was called. Score, George Washington, 21; Gallaudet, 0.

The line-up was as follows:

Preliminaries for the Virginia Debate

The second preliminary for the Virginia debate will be held Saturday, October 14th, at 8 o'clock p. m. This is very important, in fact one of the most important matters before the students. At the first preliminary last spring, entirely too few presented themselves to compete for this great honor, a place on the team that is to represent us in the most important inter-collegiate event of the year. This competition is open to every student in the University, and every one, with any debating ability, however little it may be, should make the trial. The more that go into this, the greater the interest and effort of those who are really capable of representing us. Then there is this to consider, even if you fail to get a place on this team, you will gain confidence and experience for another trial, and there is likely to be a necessity for two more teams for debates that may be arranged with Georgetown and the University of Pennsylvania.

Professor Veditz is very enthusiastic and earnest in getting out the best debating team that the University has ever produced, and if the students only do their part and furnish him with the material to work with, his object will be attained. It is a great opportunity to be under the coaching of Professor Veditz, and the training that the debater will receive from him, will alone compensate for the time and labor devoted to the work. His instruction in the logical and scientific art of debating will be a most valuable asset for those who intend to enter the legal profession, where the art of persuasion is so necessary. It is the testimony of the members of the Georgetown team, which was so successfully coached by him, that he opened up for them the possibilities of the science of debating that they had never dreamed of.

Think seriously of this and prepare to present yourself for the preliminary Saturday night.

The Needham Debating Society which has already earned the name of being a wide-awake, energetic set of students, is still showing its originality. At the opening of the University it presented each student with a convenient little handbook, containing matters of interest and information especially useful to new students.

Columbian Debating Society Reception

A very successful reception was given Friday night by the Columbian Debating Society in honor of the entering law class. The reception was held in West Hall, and as the men arrived they were introduced to the members of the Society and to their own classmates. After spending a half hour in getting acquainted, W. H. Woodwell, president of the society, called for order. He explained the object of the reception, and urged those who were entering upon their course to take an active interest in the affairs of the University. He referred to the broadening influence which results from association and work with men from all parts of the country.

Professor Clephane was then introduced as a venerable charter member of the Society, and spoke of the necessity of training in public speaking to the lawyer. He said that a law student could not commence that training too soon, and that the debating society was the proper place in which to get it.

Professor Veditz said he believed that debating was more valuable for mental training than any other subject of study, and that it was the most teachable of subjects.

Mr. Edelstein, a member of the two teams which have defeated Georgetown University in the last two debates, was called upon, and his remarks were greeted with hearty applause.

The value of debate training to a man in the arena of politics was the subject of Mr. Jackson Morris' remarks; and Mr. R. I. Moore spoke of the advantages of membership in a debating society from a social standpoint.

Mr. C. A. Badger, who last year won the first prize offered by the University for excellence in debate, was introduced to describe the methods of debating work carried on in the society and in the University.

Several selections were played during the evening by Prof. L. R. Alden, and refreshments were served at the close of the exercises. There was a large attendance, especially of men from the First Year, many of whom joined the Society. Much enthusiasm was displayed and it is believed that debating will have an even more prominent place at the University this year.

Law News

"Sentenced to hard labor for eight months," the new fledged "attorneys" in the Moot Court have a growing fellow feeling for the prisoner behind the bar.

Cooke, of New York, and Nixon of New Hampshire, are among those receiving envious congratulations for their admission to the bar of their State Courts. Mahon was successful in the District exam.

It was suggested to the Acting Dean that a "stock ticker" for latest quotations in the elective schedule would be a handy improvement, but the popular Professor contented his "orators" with the "confident hope and belief that the schedule as arranged would be permanent." He was waylaid before midnight that same night and held up by 1906, while Prof. Lorenzen surreptitiously added a course in Public Corporations.

A motherly old lady from the mountain district was inquiring as to one of "our grads." and was told that the young man was practicing law in New York City. "Land sakes, be he still practicing? How long 'fore he will be a lawyer?"

The postponement of exams for conditions in Constitutional Law and Equity, owing to the absence of Dean Tucker, and also that of Common Law Pleading did not seem to seriously disappoint the boys. Vacation study always goes slowly and they will have a few days to get ready.

The popularity of George Washington in the city is shown by the number of "specials" who have joined the student body this year. From one of the smaller departments, five special students have entered this fall.

P. D. Phair, Harvard, 1895, will take up work in Contracts as a special study.

The new name "George Washington University," has become nationally famous in a year. Those who see the papers from all corners of the country note the frequent mention of the "new university." And there is no dividing the credit with other colleges as once was. People are interested in the national capital from all over the world and are glad to see a great University here.

The second year class finds the seats in Jurisprudence Hall less adapted to quiet naps and the lights seem to have been arranged on the plan of "no rest for the wicked." There is a steady click that will have to be muffled.

Knowles, ex 1906 Law, has resigned his position in this city, and returned to his home in Massachusetts.

Thomas S. Huff, '05, will stand the New York Bar examination this month and go there to practice next year.

Enoch A. Chase, '05, is engaged in the insurance business in this city.

Julius L. Baldwin, '05, is still in the city, with Justice Harlan.

James B. Rickart, '05, was shaking hands with his old friends at the opening of the University. He will remain in the city a while longer doing some special work.

Oliver C. Carpenter, Law '03, was in this city recently calling on friends. He is connected with the legal firm of Noble, Jackson & Hubbard, of New York City, and has been recently made Acting Managing Clerk of one of the largest law offices in that city. He is booked for several lectures this winter, before New York High Schools, on the subject of Federal Control of Corporations.

Carpenter was one of the best debaters our University ever produced, being a member of the Columbian Society, and was also a popular class man.

Sam Edelstein, '05, will go to Baltimore, in the course of a few weeks, and will make that city the scene of his activities in the legal profession. The University will thus lose one of its most active and enthusiastic men, and one of its ablest debaters. Not only was Sam an able debater; he was an enthusiast in the work, and perhaps did more than any other one man to build up our debating interests, and to make it an important and attractive feature of student activity. He served his University well.

The gullible Freshman again! This time of the First Year Law class. Somebody played a dog mean trick on him, and as a consequence he wandered around town for four hours last Saturday night trying to find the Phi Tappa Keg Fraternity House.

Several of the '06 Class will take the District bar exam. in November.

The Freshman Law class is beginning to take notice; they are also becoming ambitious, and already see visions of an organization, class smoker, and other things. Some of the more progressive are poring over copies of other class constitutions and by-laws, and hope in the course of a few weeks to evolve one to suit their needs. They are doing a good thing in beginning early, thus showing the right kind of spirit.

The class of 1907 is sawing wood and saying nothing, but there is a rumor that the political pot is beginning to get warm. The class at present is so busily occupied with work that it has not yet had leisure to indulge in such frivolities. But as soon as affairs are running well, they will get into things in their wonted effective way.

With the Naughty Six class politics still rageth!

The lawyers were all to the good in the game Saturday.

The lawyers couldn't argue with the Mutes, so they did the next best thing and played ball!

Kappa Alpha Reception

Wednesday night, Oct. 4, Kappa Alpha house, 1931 K St., was a scene of festivity and pleasure.

The annual reception to the first year students was given and the large attendance attested the appreciation with which it was received.

About a hundred or a hundred and fifty of the Freshmen from the various departments gathered at the house at an early hour and spent a large part of the evening in meeting their classmates, and the older students of the University and participating freely in the pleasant diversions provided for them.

Music stirred the air all the while; and the blending of the strong voices of the gay throng was good to hear. "Lightly sped the hours fledged with music," so lightly that, even though the evening was well-nigh worn away when the doors of the spacious dining hall were thrown back to disclose the appetizing spread there arrayed, it seemed almost too early in the evening for that part of the program.

After giving expression in a few more songs to the gladness that filled their souls the guests took their departure, each assuring the hosts both by voice and appearance that the evening had been one of great enjoyment to him.

This event is a fit beginning for the social affairs in the college life in which Kappa Alpha always plays a prominent part. May it be but the first of a continued series of happy diversions from the more arduous cares and duties of college life, which may lighten the hearts, and gild all our labors with pleasure.

Phi Sigma Kappa

Lambda Chapter of the Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity gave its first smoker of the year last Saturday night, in its new and spacious chapter quarters at 2002 G Street. A large number of guests were present, including Professors Vance and Lorenzen of the Law Department and Prof. Hodgkins, of the College; also many alumni of this city, and J. H. Malone of the Cornell Chapter, and Wm. S. Fitz Gerald and H. Fuller of Cleveland. Piano and violin music was furnished throughout the evening, and the house rang with college and class songs. A buffet supper was served at 10.30, after which the members of the faculty present spoke in an interesting way of their college days and of their experiences in this and other Universities.

The Phi Sigma Kappas have been installed in their new house since the first of October, and are delightfully situated.

College

Miss Elma Gillespie, who took her Sophomore year at this college, has returned to graduate, after spending her junior year at Fort Worth Seminary, Texas.

Brotherhood of St. Andrew

The leaders of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew are very anxious to have a college chapter in George Washington University.

Mr. C. W. Whitmore, '06 college, has been empowered by them and with the consent of the faculty will endeavor to form a local chapter.

The Brotherhood is an organization of the Protestant Episcopal Church, whose sole object is the spread of Christian ideals among men. It has always emphasized the manly side of our religion and no man of neuter gender is wanted. There is plenty of work to do if the workers will only come out. A preliminary meeting will be held on Friday, at 6.30, in the Main Hall, Fifteenth and H Sts.

This will last only a few minutes, and is mainly to get a line on what support to expect. If you can't come then, at least send in your name, to Mr. Whitmore.

There are many Brotherhood men in the University and they surely ought to come. Anyone else is cordially invited.

Enosinian Society

The first meeting of the Enosinian Literary and Debating Society took place Friday evening. A number of new members were initiated and after this ceremony, the election of officers for the first term took place. Mr. K. M. Block of the Senior Class, received the unanimous vote of the Society for President and was duly installed. The other officers elected were:

Vice-President, Miss Rideout; Secretary, E. P. Gates; Treasurer, O. B. Singleton; Critic, Miss Moyer; Librarian, Miss McAvoy, and Editors of the two Enosinian papers, the Bee and the News, Messrs. Marve, Lamb, Dahn, and Croxton. The Society took up several constitutional amendments which have been lying on the table since early last year and succeeded in passing all but one. This seems rather radical proceedings for an organization which has heretofore been very reluctant to alter any of its traditions, but all the changes made were brought about by the chance recently made in the debating situation in the University. The next meeting will take place a week from this Friday, on October 20th. Anyone interested in debating or any of the other features of Enosinian's order of business, are cordially invited. The order of business includes an extemporaneous speech, reading of the two papers, a criticism and a debate. Applications should be sent to E. P. Gates.

O, Fudge

There was a young girl at the Sault,
Who really had nothing to dault,
And that's why she made,
In sunshine and shade,
Those eyes that the boys call
"gault-gault."

The Columbian Women

The first meeting of the Columbian Women for this winter was called Monday afternoon, October 9, in Room 17 of the University Building. About thirty members were present. Reports were heard from the retiring officers which showed a very prosperous year just ended, and also reports from the several committees. Announcement was made that the first draft upon the Loan scholarship fund has been made, and a letter of appreciation was read from Dr. Needham. A picture of George Washington was presented to the Columbian Women, the gift of one of the number. It is to be a companion picture to that of Martha Washington already in the possession of the Columbian Women and will be hung in the Library of the University. The name of Miss Augusta De Forest was proposed for membership, and she was unanimously elected. Election of officers occupied the rest of the meeting with the result of Miss E. H. Turner for President; Mrs. Vance, First Vice-President; Miss McMillan, Second Vice-President; Miss McIlhenny, Recording Secretary; Miss Clancy, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. Harshman, Treasurer; and Miss Amy Thompson, Historian.

First Year Law Meets

The First Year Class is getting busy early. Friday afternoon it effected a temporary organization and discussed plans for the future. Mr. J. M. Sheridan was selected as temporary chairman and as such called the meeting to order. Mr. H. T. Rodier was appointed acting secretary.

This year's Freshman class in the law school exceeds one hundred members and a majority of these were present yesterday. It was the sense of the meeting that committees be appointed, first to draft a constitution for the consideration of the class, and also one to formulate plans for a smoker. The committee appointed to prepare a constitution consists of Messrs. E. H. Hadley, F. E. Hunt, F. H. Tracey, L. H. West and L. B. Perkins. The committee which is to arrange for the smoker consists of W. L. Miller, J. E. Biscoe, E. R. Keene, P. L. Scantling, E. Young, F. H. Low, and H. T. Rodier.

Another committee, whose duty it will be to submit at the next meeting for the consideration of the members a class "yell," was appointed and consists of T. D. Couden, H. H. Riddleberger, L. Fritzfelder, G. W. Ramsey and C. L. Allen.

Other matters were discussed by the members present and after the business had been concluded a social session was held and those present proceeded to get "better acquainted."

The athletic fields of Harvard and Pennsylvania are said to have cost $500,000 each.

Dental

The Dental Infirmary opened under the immediate supervision of Dr. Bassett, October 2nd, when the men were assigned lockers, and benches in the laboratory. From the way in which the work is coming in, and the limited number of men in the senior and junior classes to do it, the indications are that there will be all that everyone can do, and everyone is urged strongly to get into the infirmary as soon and as often as possible.

The Freshman class is getting up early these mornings to get down to Dr. Shute's lecture on anatomy, which begins at 8 A. M., and runs to 8.45 A. M.

The Junior class is assigned to the infirmary this year, an innovation which will be appreciated by the class, and of which all who can will take advantage. This is the work that counts when a man gets out to practice, and he can't have too much of it when he is in school.

Most of the old familiar faces have put in an appearance since school opened.

Mr. John T. Vivian of the Junior class was married during the summer, his "At Home" cards giving 1203 East Capitol Street as his address.

Woodruff, of the Senior class, caused all work to be suspended the other day when he brought a particularly prepossessing patient into the room, the demonstrator, even, expressing great willingness to "come over and look at the case." Everybody else came and looked at the case, too.

Girls' Mandolin Club

Those who remember the fine work of the Girls' Glee Club, last year, will be glad to hear that a movement is on foot toward the formation of a Girls' Mandolin Club. Such an organization would be a very desirable addition to the list of musical clubs already in existence and should be heartily supported. Those who join will not only be contributing to the pleasure of others but will add largely to their own store of pleasant experiences. Every girl who can play any of the instruments usually used in a mandolin club should communicate at once with Miss Mildred Cochran and do what she can to help the cause along.

Sigma Chi Smoker

The Epsilon Chapter of the Sigma Chi Fraternity gave a smoker last Wednesday evening in honor of a number of friends.

The Chapter has recently concluded arrangements for a new house on H Street, which is being fitted up for the fraternity. It will be occupied about November 1st.

The Editor wishes to ask your indulgence for the few inaccuracies appearing in the first issue. But there was so much to be done, involving an entire change in the form and make-up of the paper from the very foundation, that time was not given to exercise the great care necessary to prevent errors.

It is our intention to produce a paper notable for lack of inaccuracies and typographical errors, and the department editors will contribute greatly toward this, if they will get their news in on time, by Monday, at ten a. m., and not make it necessary to rush in everything at the last minute.

Write as legible a hand as possible and on one side of the paper.

Last week an effort was made to get the address of every student in the University, in order to mail him a copy of THE HATCHET, but on account of incomplete registration this could not be done, so that as best we could, we endeavored to reach everyone by handing them out. If anyone failed to get a copy, it was unintentional, for it is our purpose to get a copy into the hands of every student and professor in the University, for the first two or three weeks.

If you wish to subscribe and be sure of getting your paper, fill out one of those subscription blanks in the halls and drop it in the box, or, if you can not get one of them, your name and address will do.

In a short time the Manager will see every student and give him a chance to subscribe.

It was noticed that some departments were not represented in the last issue. The Editor walked many miles and made many entreaties to members of these departments to prevail upon them to contribute something concerning their department. If there is no one in any particular branch of the University that is willing to give the little time and trouble necessary to furnish the news concerning themselves, it is difficult to see how it is to be obtained.

To be a perfect, well-rounded college exponent, such a publication as THE HATCHET should be dignified, and at the same time bright, witty, and "snappy," full of things that are peculiar to college life. During the first few weeks of the opening of a college year, the days are too full of work and serious thought to allow time for much fun and wit, but it is hoped that when things get to running smoothly, this paper will be able to reflect the bright, sparkling exuberance of the life of the student, and that in it will be found witty, original thoughts and expressions from all phases of our life.

Students are urged to contribute verses and witticisms of all sorts. There are many little incidents and sayings that occur daily among us that would enliven the columns of the paper.

Elsewhere is an article concerning the preliminary for the Virginia debate. This is of the utmost concern to every one connected with the University. Last year the victory went to Virginia, and the year before to us, so that the coming contest in December will break the tie. If we win this one, the series and a treble honor will be ours.

There are enough good men in the University to make a winning team, if they will only enter the contest. Of course, we know that many are pushed for time to do this sort of work, but the faculty has always shown itself anxious and ready to do anything reasonable to encourage things of such vital importance to the University. Last year they sacrificed their own time and gave extra lectures to some who had extra work. Rest assured that those who are willing, will be given every legitimate opportunity.

Get after your friends who may have debating ability, and urge them to try for this honor, that will return fruits a hundred-fold for the work it entails.

The training alone that the members of the team will get from Professor Veditz will repay them for the time they give to preparation for the debate and will be of the greatest value to them in their future professions. Then, too, it is one of the greatest honors the University bestows, to be a member of her debating team.

The work of our foot ball team last Saturday was most encouraging. We clearly have a much better team than we had last year and made up of material that will improve rapidly with coaching. The line is heavy and the back field is made up of men who are naturally strong and fast, although some of them are as yet playing slow because of lack of experience. But these men have it in them to develop into as good players as any we have. However, no man should be allowed to think that he has a "cinch" on the team. Every player must know that if he gets careless and allows his work to lag, anyone who shows up better will be given the place. The scrubs should feel that there is always a possibility of their getting a chance to play on the regular team.

Unless things change greatly it seems that we are going to have a chance to even things up with our old-time rivals. At any rate, it will be a much more even fight than ever before.

We take it that every loyal student having the interest of the University at heart, is willing to do anything for her advantage. Now, the greater part of the money necessary to run THE HATCHET comes from our advertisers, and if the income from them is not as large as it should be, the paper must suffer. As a usual thing, getting advertisements is hard work, unless the business men can see the result of their advertising. But the students can make it easy to get all the management wants if they will co-operate.

When you contemplate purchasing anything, look over the list of those who care enough to take space in the paper, then go to them and after buying, tell them you did it because you saw their advertisement in the paper. If you do that, they will come asking for a continuance of space.

Be willing to do this and you will be casting your bread upon the waters.

The Retort Courteous

The Bishop of London once said that the difference between a preacher and a judge was that the former could say, "You be damned," while the latter could only say, "You be hanged."

Lord Coke got back at him by replying: "If a Judge says, 'You be hanged' you are hanged!"

Mr. E. V. Dunstan, '05, has received an appointment as instructor in the faculty of Engineering and will not leave the city as reported last week.

Reynolds, captain of Pennsylvania team, was not allowed by the faculty to play in Saturday's game, because of conditions in the Law school.

Social Events

On Monday evening, October 2d, at the beautiful home of the bride's parents, one hundred eleven First street, Northeast, was celebrated the wedding of Miss Olive VanPatten Dodge and Lieut. Thomas Ceburn Musgrove, United States Army. This wedding is of special interest to readers of THE HATCHET, as both Miss Dodge and Lieut. Musgrove were students in the University. They leave many warm friends in college who will regret their departure for Ft. Leavenworth, where the Lieutenant is now stationed. Miss Dodge is a Chi Omega and a typical George Washington girl; the sort we are glad to have always with us. Lieut. Musgrove is a Kappa Alpha and '05 Law, having graduated with honor this spring. Although so young a man he has already served his country in the regular army with the high rank of Judge Advocate. Best wishes for future happiness follow them from many warm friends here.

Miss Gladys Ames and Mr. R. A. Branning were quietly married in Baltimore last month. They were both students of George Washington University. Miss Ames is a Chi Omega girl. She took her M. A. in 1904.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank A. Barbour announce the marriage of their daughter, Stella May, to Mr. Herbert Luis Solyom, September 12, 1905. It was a quiet home wedding only members of the immediate families being present. After the ceremony the bride and groom left on a trip South. They are now in Wisconsin, where they expect to remain two years. Both were students of the George Washington University and were active in college affairs.

Wednesday, October 4th, the Chi Omega fraternity met a number of the new students at a luncheon served in Dr. Carroll's class room.

Pi Beta Phi Reception

On Wednesday evening, October fourth, the annual round of college functions of a more formal kind was inaugurated with a reception given by the Pi Beta Phi fraternity in honor of the girls of the Freshman Class and their mothers. The Library, where the reception was held, was rendered very attractive by the hanging of fraternity banners and colors. President and Mrs. Needham, together with the members of the College Fraternity and their wives, were invited to meet the new girls. Miss McCoy, Miss Crew, Miss Taylor, Miss Turner and Miss Frisby received the guests at the door. During the evening, Miss Kelley, Miss Birch, Miss Taylor and Miss Bethune contributed a musical program which was greatly enjoyed. After the serving of refreshments, informal dancing aided hostesses and guests in becoming better acquainted.

New Quarters For Engineering Department

The various courses in Engineering have at last been united in a single department, the "College of Engineering." Professor Philander Betts is Dean and will devote his whole time to the work, with headquarters in the Van Ness mansion.

By the present arrangements in the courses of Civil, Mechanical, and Electrical Engineering, a student giving all day to his work will get his degree in four years, and giving his evenings, in six years. Classes given during the evening one year will be given in the morning the next.

The old Van Ness mansion has been completely refitted and facilities for laboratory work and class-room instruction greatly enlarged. The much-needed course of shop work has been inaugurated. The course is similar in most respects to that provided in all the leading technical schools. Some equipment is now on hand and additions will be made from time to time.

Great headway has been made in the Electrical division and one of the leading manufacturers of electrical supplies in this city has promised to furnish an important addition, in the shape of a number of small motors of various sizes for both direct and alternating currents. This will make it possible to perform most of the latest experiments and tests required in the use of modern electrical machinery in an up-to-date and thorough manner.

Dramatic Club

The Dramatic Club held its first meeting of the year on Friday last. Owing to the small attendance, no business was transacted and no action taken as to what plays would be presented this year. "The School for Scandal" has been suggested and if the parts can be suitably filled, this will certainly be put on. This Club offers a splendid training for public speaking and for society in general. There is nothing which contributes so much to the development of ease and repose of bearing and eloquence of speech, as just such experience as one gets in playing a part. One of our western universities was so impressed with this aspect of college dramatics that it has made it part of the regular college work and lets it count for the student's degree.

If you have any talent in this line, or if you would like to try, be sure to attend the next meeting which takes place on Friday next, at 6.30 o'clock, in West Hall, College Building.

Woman's League

Thursday, October 5th, at 6.30 P. M., the Woman's League held their first regular business meeting of the year in West Hall. In the absence of Miss McMillan, of whose illness we regret to hear, Miss McCleary presided. It was decided that a committee of three be appointed each month by the President, in the order of their names on the roll, to be responsible for the appearance and order of the girls' room and the reception room. A fine idea, girls, and one that will have the hearty co-operation of everyone using these rooms. A committee consisting of Miss McPherson, Miss Smith, Miss Watkins and Miss McMahon, was appointed to prepare for a social function to be given in the near future. This is good news to all who have ever been present at any Woman's League affairs.

Chi Omega

The Chi Omega fraternity entertained a number of their friends in their apartment, at the Rochambeau, Saturday, October 7th. A few vocal and instrumental numbers were rendered by Mrs. Williston Hough and Miss Mable Smith. Miss Smith is gifted with a rich mezzo soprano voice that is a delight to hear. Mrs. Hough is a pupil of the great Leschetizky, of Vienna, who gave a Paderewski to the music loving world. In the short time that Mrs. Hough has been with us, she has found a circle of warm and admiring friends who are proud to welcome her as one of the George Washington University world.

We wish to express our deep sorrow and sincere sympathy with Miss McCleary in the loss of her grandfather, E. S. McCleary. Mr. McCleary was seventy-four years of age. His death came suddenly and unexpectedly, Sunday morning, October 8th, and is rendered particularly sad by the fact that the final preparations for the celebration of a golden wedding were completed only the day before.

For Sale To Highest Bidder

One Vote for Class President,
Third Year Class.

All parties interested will call

No. 28 Equitable Building, F St.
DEAR MOTHER:—

I think I will come home right away. I send you a copy of what I saw on the Bulletin board today. Isn't it awful? To think that a man would openly advertise his vote for sale! I don't want to stay anywhere where such things go on. It certainly does look like these fellows in this Third Year Class are very corrupt, for I was talking to a fellow, who said that Mac., (I don't know who that is), had offered him fifteen cents for his vote, but he was holding off for a quarter, at least, and thought he could pull that much out of "Old Nicks," who must be a very bad man, from his name.

I thought everybody come here to study, but it seems to me that these Senior Law men don't do a thing but talk. Every time I go about the building I see some of them, nearly all the time the same three or four, have some fellow button-holed, just talking to him and shaking his finger as if he were blessing somebody else out. They are divided up in two or three men for president and each side hates the other like snakes, and can't see anything good in the other. I thought that was bad enough, but when it comes to advertising a vote for sale, that is more than I can stand. I don't know who this fellow is that wants to sell his vote, but some fellow said he knew him for he had offered it to him for 16 cents, and called him "Quickly," or some such name, and said he was such a good boy three years ago that he would never have thought of such a thing, but associating with "Boss Tweed," Furbishup, and Muleorman had dragged him down.

If things don't get better, I am coming.

Your affectionate son,

WILLIAM.

One has to go into the College Library and look around only a moment to see the wonderful transformation that has been brought about by Miss Freebey. The neatness of the room and convenient and systematic arrangement of the books are most noticeable, and a general air of refinement pervades everything. The University is most fortunate in having among its enthusiastic workers such a versatile one as Miss Freebey. She has made herself indispensable.

is one of the chief attributes to success. Every student is therefore interested in this great store where especial attention is paid to the needs of young people.

A Co-Educational Incident

One of the chief joys of life at Columbian College is co-education. But sometimes, it is responsible for some rather embarrassing situations. For instance, in looking around for some quiet nook in which to "seek peace and pursue it", one is very apt to find it already sought and by two young people who are delightedly "studying" together. Sometimes they even "seek and pursue it" in the class room, but such instances are rare and frowned upon by the Faculty. Consequently you can imagine our surprise at what took place in History 3, the other day. The class had just finished laughing at Dr. Swisher's latest joke when a blushing co-ed. entered and announced to the doctor that she would take his assistance.

"Ah!" said the genial Dr. "I admire your taste. My assistant is a charming man, indeed."

"But, Dr. Swisher," she hesitated but a moment and then the flood gates of her affection opened and with a blush of maidenly modesty, she said:

"Dr. Swisher, I would much rather have you."

The class began to feel as if it were butting-in and would have left in a body, but the doctor assured her gently but firmly that it could never be. He would be a brother to her, he said, and felt deeply the honor she conferred upon him, but his mother objected to his marrying so young; so she would have to be satisfied with his assistant.

Strange to say she did not seem at all "stung" by this public refusal but left with the remark that she hoped the assistant would soon be ready to take her class.

The class was gradually preparing itself for the next joke, when an impudent student whispered to a friend on the other side of the room: "These little affairs interest me so."

What would we do without coeducation? Were it not for such incidents as this we would have to do as the Yale Freshmen do and seek relaxation by showing motor-men how to run street cars and by chasing innocent "cops" off their beats.

Season Tickets

The Athletic Association is offering season tickets for the foot ball games, for $2.00. There will be six games on the home grounds and the price of each separate ticket is fifty cents so that there is a saving of $1.00.

To Classes

Last week societies and fraternities were urged to appoint or elect some one of their number as THE HATCHET editor, to see that all matters concerning them were presented for publication.

As the various classes are soon to have their elections, it would be in order for each class to elect an editor or reporter, who shall watch after the news interest of the class, and see that the general department editor of THE HATCHET staff is informed of its affairs.

When the elections are held this should be done, for it is the only systematic way of getting all the news from all the departments.
